is not regathering. However, the general condition of the patient is not trainguilzing, because of the state of depression, which at intervals increases."

As can be seen by the morning bulletin, the Pope's condition to-day is not so favorable as it was last night, dusto the fact that the improvement after the operation of vesterday has not assumed the proportions the doctors wished. While the inflammation of the lungs is decreasing, the patient's general condition does not improve, and there is a tendency towards a radical change for the worse. The Pontiff is extremely weak, and even chloral seems to have lost its power to give the sufferer the relief of tranquil rest. Resides, what depresses the Pope is the difficulty he is experiencing in breathing. At times he appears to be upon the point of stranguilation, and then his breathing gradually becomes weaker, until his heart apparently stops.

Another great preoccupation of the doctors is the derangement of the patient's kidneys, as a result of which blood-poisoning is feared. The outlook now is that the Pope's life may perhaps be prolonged more than could have been expected thirty-six hours ago, but the hopes of his recovery are still very small.

"Perhaps you did not sleep sufficiently?"
"No, no." answered the Pope. "I was better last night. I am sorry, because to-day should be a day of great work."
"Surely." Dr. Mazzoni asked. "Ithis Holiness does not intend to work."
"Certainly." answered the Pope. "I have so many things to do, but I am afraid I have not the strength."
Both of the doctors then proceeded to convince the Pontiff of the necessity for rest, urging him not to place obstacles in the way of his recovery.
"I shall do as you wish." said the Pope, in conclusion, with a sigh of resignation.

Atterwards His Hollness expressed a desire to rise, saying he would be more comfortable in his arm-chair. The Pope's attendant, Plo Centra, then proceeded to help him to arise, but the Pope readcomfortable in his acre, then proceeded to help him to arise, but the Pope refused his assistance, saying he could still move by himself. In fact, without any help except that afforded by his cane, the Pontiff walked a few steps to his arm-chair, repeating now and then: "I am weaker; I am weaker." Part of the work referred to by the Pope was to repeat a novena to the Madonna of the Carmelites, whose feast begins to-day. The Pope is a very devout venerator of this Madonna, always carrying his scapular about his neck.

The intense anxiety regarding the Pontiff's condition, which is felt throughout the United States, is shown by the receipt of a very large number of telegrams from eminent American prelates and lay Catholics in America, making anxious inquiries and expressing the hope that the prayers for his recovery will be answered.

HISTORY OF SICKNESS

Exact Data of Illness With Which Pope is Suffering.

(By Associated Press.)

ROME, July 8.—The newspapers this evening publish a history of the Pope's liness, evidently inspired by Doctors Lapponi and Mazzoni, who wish to defend themselves from the attacks on their diagnosis of the case, but it is interesting as the first document glying exact apartments, again feeling benefited from lis drive.

"On Thursday he declared he felt well, but Dr. Lapponi, wishing to know personally the nature of the disturbance complained of, spent the night at the Vatican. During the night the Pope was sleepless and rostless.

"On Friday, Dr. Lapponi examined the Pope and found pulmonary inflammation in the right of the thorax, between the inferi and middle lobes. He informed Cardinal Rampolla, and began the treatment which he thought right on Saturday, During the day the inflammation spread. Dr. Lapponi worried; desired to have Pope, Leo seen by Dr. Mazzoni, who, since the operation in 1800, has visited the Pontiff occasionally, replacing Dr. Lapponi during his illness with appendicitis.

"On Sunday Dr. Mazzon went to the Vatican and examined the patient with Dr. Lapponi, confirming the latter's diagnosis, viz: an inflammatory process in the lung, which was defined in the medical bulletin as pulmonary hepatization. The original treatment was continued, consisting of supporting the strength of the heart and general condition of the patient.

"No noticeable change was observed until Monday evening. It was then found that the lowest part of the right of the thorax, which previously was pervious to respiration, had become impervious, affecting the function of the lung. The presence of liquid was suspected. The Pontiff spent an agitated and sleepless night.

"On Tuesday many symptoms confirmed the presence of liquid. Its increase was considered to account for the Pope's general condition growing worse. After a test puncture, So grammes of bloody liquid was extracted. The condition of the patient improved immediately, reviving hopes, slight in some persons, and exaggerated in others. Immediately, reviving hopes, and exaggerated in off. The ameloration in the condition of patient was not continued during W nesday. Indeed, depression gained upper hand."

Cardinals. ROME, July 8.—This evening Dr. Maz-zoni was suddenly called out of the sick chamber by Cardinal Rampolla and a hurried whispered conversation ensued. This gave rise to all kind of rumors, but This gave rise to all kind of rumors, but it was soon explained that Cardinal Rampolla had taken upon himself the duty of acting as mouthpiece for some of the intimate friends and relatives of the Pope, who suggested the advisability of calling certain other doctors in consultation. Dr. Mazzoni replied that he had, not the least objection to such a consultation, but that the symptoms and course of the disease were so clear and well defined as to leave no doubt as to the diagnosis, He therefore was unable to see the necessity for the step proposed. No decisjon has yet been reached about the matter. It became known later in the day that the motive for Dr. Mazzoni's sudden call by Cardinal Rampolla originated in

Dr. Lapponi, who is supported by Dr. Mazzoni, indigmantly repudiated the idea. However, the criticising cardinals not only maintained their view, but succeeding in reaching the ear of Cardinal Rampolla. Besides this, the Pope's relatives proposed that a consultation be held with the most illustrious physicians, naming Dr. Autonio Cardarella and Dr. Guido Raccelli. But, apart from the question of hurfing Dr. Lapponi's feelings, further difficulty thereupon arese, owing to the existing relations between Church and State. PARIS, July 8.—It has been stated here in dispatches from Rome that Cardinal Mathieu would in the event of the death of the Pope claim for France the ancient right to exercise "High Patronage" (the right to control) at the conclave. The correspondent of the Associated Press made an inquiry on the subject at the Foreign Office here and learned that the report was untrue. No such instructions have been sent to Cardinal Mathieu or to may other cardinal. The presence of Cardinal act that has violan is due to the fact that had been member of the papal government, which necessitates his action is quite independent of any influence over the conclave.
